

The author: Eudokia

THE MYSTERY OF ASLAN

Professor was right when he said that the story in the wardrobe is only the beginning of Narnia's adventures. After Aslan crowned four young people, he went back to his country where he met Solntsegramma - the most beautiful lioness on earth. She looked like a beam of a rising sun, and her eyes looked like two lakes. Soon after, they had a little baby. She inherited blue eyes, kindness and beauty of her mother, as well as dignity, righteousness, bravery and strength of her father. They called their baby Susely. Little lioness was growing fast.

However, once the wicked witch Samandra attacked the Aslan family, killed Solntsegramma and immediately disappeared. Aslan and his daughter tried to resurrect her, but unfortunately they were not successful. The witch killed Solntsegramma because she had a magic power which can win over Samandra. When Solntsegramma was giving birth, she gave all her power to her daughter, who did not know about it...After mother's death, Suesly grew up and became like her mother.

Once, when Suesly and Aslan were walking in the forest, Aslan said that he needs to check the balance of goodness and evil in other worlds. Aslan commended Suesly to take care of this world while he is far away. He promised to be back shortly.

It has been two days since Aslan left on his road. Samandra, meanwhile went to Narnia, and from there she sent her servants to the country of Aslan in order to kill him. While Samandra was conquering Narnia, her servants already were in the country of Aslan. Samandra's servants were searching for Aslan for a long time, but instead found his daughter Suesly. Monsters attacked Suesly, however she responded with a harsh roar. Those monsters who resisted, were attacked back by Suesly. She was throwing and pushing them away with her paws. However, several strong warriors of the witch overthrew the lioness on her back and bound her with robes, as once the terrible monsters did to Aslan.

Suesly felt as the energy of rage was overflowing her. All of a sudden, she heard a soft and gentle voice in her head: "Let this energy come out of you, and you will definitely win". Suesly realized that it was the voice of her mother, and she did as her mother advised.

Unexpectedly for her, Suesly realized that she is glowing with a blue light. She noticed that her enemies are getting blinded and falling down. Then she started to glow with a golden color. She realized that enemies are disappearing. It was her first battle and a great victory!

Aslan came back short after. When he found out about what happened, he was both happy and sad. He was happy because his beloved daughter has won the battle. Aslan was sad because he knew that the witch now wants to kill both him and Suesly. The father told Suesly what is happening in Narnia and what he has decided to do. Suesly approved his choice and they returned home. At the sunset Aslan and Suesly were sitting on the stone that was lighted by the sun and were talking for a long time about what happened.

Everything ended well. Everyone lived long and happily. No One ever separated the father and his daughter.

The End